JN429-1. Muslims meet Jesus through dreams

A Californian magazine ran a survey of over 600 ex-Muslims who now follow Jesus, and concludes: "Although dreams appear to play a minor role in the conversion of Westerners, over 25% of these ex-Muslims affirmed that dreams and visions played a vital role in their conversions and helped them through difficult times."

According to the report, Christ frequently appears as a figure in white in these dreams and visions. "A follower of Jesus from Guinea tells of a person in white who appeared to him, calling him with outstretched arms. A Muslim Malay saw her deceased Christian parents in a dream, celebrating in heaven. Jesus, in a white robe, told her "If you want to come to me, come!" She realised that she had been trying to reach God all her life unsuccessfully, and that God had now taken the initiative Himself to reach her through Jesus".

A special website has been launched which offers seeking Muslims the possibility to share their dreams and visions online. The website registers 1.3 million hits per day. Muslims seeking Jesus receive biblical and culturally sensitive answers to their questions.

JN429-4. NEWS BRIEF: Kenya's main Muslim city comes to Christ

In the coastal city of Mombasa, Kenya's second largest city, many new churches are being planted. Ten years ago Mombasa was 99% Muslim. The church has advanced spectacularly over the last decade and the city, with over half a million inhabitants, is now nearly 60% Christian. Even in 'Old Mombasa Town', an Arab enclave with radical followers of Islam, souls are being won and a few churches are now in existence, although persecution is at times severe.
